Saturday & Sunday from 10am – 6pm each day

Men Welcome

Would you like to earn a living that more truly expresses who you are? Do you want to be more excited by your work and less a captive of it? Have you outgrown your job? Is making a contribution an important part of the work you want to do? Is there something you feel you could excel at if you could only find a way to be paid for it? Do you dream about earning a living with grace, ease, satisfaction and more autonomy?

If you're looking for creative work that really satisfies you, join us for How to Make a Graceful Living. You'll learn techniques that, coupled with your commitment and creativity, will help create new job opportunities. The course is for people who want more joy from the way they earn money.

The course is designed to:

- help find work more natural for you
- show how to find work that truly expresses who you are
- consolidate all your talents and use them
- discover how work can support your expansion and growth

In the course you will uncover:

- the best use of your unique bundle of skills
- where your self-expression may have been stopped
- how to look optimistically toward the future
- how to accept change and even encourage it
- what is authentic work for you

It wasn't long ago that people had one job and a career with one company. Today we manage our jobs and careers in a rapidly shifting culture. Work that satisfied you yesterday may actually be a stepping stone in your career. Opportunities to discover fulfilling and nurturing work for ourselves and others are available or can be created.

Maureen went through this process 35 years ago. Her personal research for this course led her to leave the world of advertising, marketing, education and the arts and resulted in her Life Works partnership. She became a business therapist, consultant, entrepreneur, investor, landlord, marketer and teacher. She has created numerous partnerships, events and conferences, the publishing arm of Life Works and is now studying the internet to expand Life Works' and her mastery of this new method of communication. When not in New York, she works from homes in Santa Fe, New Mexico, Palm Springs, California, and Long Island's North Fork.

What we really want to do is what we are really meant to do.
When we do what we are meant to do,
money comes to us,
doors open for us,
we feel useful,
and the work we do feels like play to us.
